The Churchill Theatre is a large building with two foyers and two seating areas.
To get to these areas and foyers there are staircases which are adequately lit and have white edges to the steps.

The two seating areas, where you watch the show, are in the Auditorium and are called Circle and Stalls; these are theatrical terms for the upstairs and downstairs areas.

When you first arrive from Bromley High Street you will enter the Circle Foyer which is on the level of the upstairs seating area. This may be crowded and noisy as lots of people.

In this foyer, directly in front of you as you enter, is the Box Office. This is where to collect or buy tickets if you have not already got them.

If you have tickets for the Circle then the doors are each side of the Box Office. If you have tickets for the Stalls then you will go down stairs.
AUDITORIUM CIRCLE (UPSTAIRS SEATING AREA)

This area will have a lot of other adults and children sitting down to watch with you.

This is a theatre ticket showing where you should go.
The letter shows the row of seats you are in and the number shows the seat you will use.

When you are in the auditorium (the seating area), you will find a letter at the end of each row of seats and a number on the top of the seat back rest.

All the seats face the stage where the actors and dancers will perform for you, telling the story of the pantomime.

Also in the Circle Foyer there is a shop selling sweets; soft drinks and ice creams.

There is a family bar selling all refreshments another 7 steps up either side of the foyer Toilets are down stairs each side and in the Stalls Foyer. However, there is an accessible toilet on the Circle Foyer level.

If you go down the stairs like these you will reach the Stalls Foyer. This is where you need to go if you have Stalls Tickets.
In the Stalls foyer is a kiosk selling sweets; drinks and ice creams.

Toilets are on the right hand side of the foyer.

AUDITORIUM STALLS (DOWNSTAIRS SEATING AREA)

The entrance doors to the stalls are each side of the foyer.

You will see Theatre Hosts around the building wearing black shirts and black waistcoats.

They work here and will help you if you have any questions.

When the show is about to start, I will hear an announcement telling everyone with a mobile phone to turn them off.
The theatre will get dark, and everyone will be quiet.

It is important to try to be quiet during the show so I can hear everything that is going on.

If I want to, I can cover my ears if I think the performance is too loud. I can also wear my headphones.

There is a break in the middle of the show called an interval, the show will stop for 20 minutes and the lights in the auditorium will come on. I can get up and go and buy a drink or an ice cream if I would like.
At the end of the interval, I will hear an announcement asking everyone to go back to their seats as the show is about to start again. If I am not already sitting down, I will go back to my seat and try to sit quietly.

At the end of the show people will clap to show their appreciation for the actors. I can clap if I want to. The clapping might seem loud and scary, so I can cover my ears if I want to, but I know that people are only making the noise because they are happy.
In the event of an emergency, the Hosts are trained to evacuate the audience, usually up and out the main circle foyer exit doors but, if necessary, they may direct you out of a fire exit where you will be safe.
